Red River Jamboree

• We sure enjoyed hearing Stu Phillips, Peggy Neville, and the rest of the Red River Jamboree cast last night. It was a great pleasure to hear this program on CKX-TV Brandon again (Wednesdays on CBC-TV). This is sure good, clean, lively entertainment. Hearty congratulations to all concerned—keep up the good work.

—Mrs. M.M., Minnedosa.

Quest—Two Soldiers

• In response to your TV program Quest on October 8 entitled Two Soldiers:

Is there not a board of censors? The language was moronic, if anything. Is it at all necessary to have this type of language to put the play across? Or is it a horizon the CBC is fumbling to obtain? If it is an impression they are trying to make, I feel it is the wrong approach.

—L.W.M., Brandon.

• . . . an insult to any thinking adult. If you want to have Canadian plays, first be honest and face the facts. Talk about a brain-washing, that certainly was an example of it, with the slur on our government and comparing it with communism. . . .

—Mrs. W.F.N., Stockholm, Sask.

• The CBC kids shows are real good, but that's all. . . .

CFL Football

• (Re: "CFL Football," Mailbag, October 26-November 1). What about western sportscasting when an Eastern team is concerned? I am of course a fan of the Ti-Cats.

At the beginning of the football season, at the end of the Montreal-Hamilton game, a small and innocent skirmish occurred between a Lark and a Tabby. This very insignificant incident was reported by an Edmonton CBC sportscaster as a brawl. Recently a real hassle ensued at the end of the Lions-Esks game played in Vancouver. Was this mentioned as a brawl? Not a word.

—E.B.T., Edmonton.

The Canadian Heritage

• Being a comparative newcomer to Canada . . . perhaps I can express the impartial sentiment of one who has consciously evaluated but a small part of Canadian heritage, which at times may become lost to you because of its familiarity.

If Festival's The Labyrinth (CBC-TV October 16) is any indication of the CBC's partial program policy, then I can but humbly submit that Canadians in this instance have a threefold reason to hold their heads high: 1. To possess such highly calibrated talent in the field of entertainment; 2. To possess a television network such as the CBC which brought it to them; 3. To possess a network whose obvious dedication is to continuously offer material so varied in content, as to genuinely contribute to the mental health and well-being of a great country. Realizing this, you must feel a tremendous sense of pride.

—J.T.C., Winnipeg.

Background Music

• We have long been annoyed by background music in plays and other oral programs. The last straw has now been added by CBWT with the addition of background music during the reading of the news.

—E.J.L., Winnipeg.

Grindl

• The new program Grindl (seen Thurs., CBC Television, 9:30 p.m.) was very poor but did not sink to the level of Beverly Hillbillies.

—T.G.M., Jasper Place, Alta.

Winnipeg Productions

• I am writing to compliment you on two of your very fine productions. They are Red River Jamboree (Wednesdays, CBC-TV) and Time Out For Music (Mondays, CBC-TV 5:30 p.m.). It seems to me that pretty well all of your Winnipeg productions are very good programs. . . .

You must have a very good production staff down there as well as good performers. . . .

CBC TIMES

Night Of Admission

A NEW PATIENT is trundled in and for the present inhabitants of the ward, some relief now appears to be in sight. At last, here is a newcomer with fresh ideas from the outside world, a new approach to combatting the grumpy nurse, perhaps, or a much-needed butt for the tired jokes that have become part of the ward psyche.

The life-and-death cycle of man is often played out in the seemingly compressed time-life relationship of sickness and confinement with a greater intensity than "outside."

One such cycle, completed harshly in a single night, is the theme of Quest, November 19.

The Tuesday night drama, Night of Admission, is by Toronto writer Frank Freedman and is adapted from his novel, This Side of Holman's Hill.

Taking part in the 30-minute George McCowan production are Don Francks, Ruth Springford, Joe Austin and Alan Crofoot.

On-location scenes were filmed at Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital. Supervising producer for Quest is Daryl Duke.

In answer to requests of teen-agers for a program of their own kind of music, CBC-TV presents Music Hop each Thursday at 5:30 p.m. Host Alex Trebek is seen with The Girl Friends—Rhonda Silver, Stephanie Taylor and Diane Miller—guests on November 14.

around CBC

A NEW FEATURE has been added to the Assignment series on the CBC Radio Network weekdays at 8:00 p.m. Each week, freelance writer-broadcaster Lyal Brown will contribute a "Western Pulse" item dealing with interesting people, places and new developments in the Canadian West.

Lyal Brown

Stories cover a variety of subjects ranging from a visit to a turkey supper in a country town, to progress reports on major building projects. Interviews with old-timers provide first-hand accounts of the pioneer days in the early West. Western Canada's new look in industry and the arts also will be examined.

On November 27 "Western Pulse" will visit a high school in Winnipeg where professional Canadian actors bring the works of Shakespeare to life for students. The troupe, sponsored by the Manitoba Theatre Centre in co-operation with school boards in the Greater Winnipeg area, includes such noted performers as Donnelly Rhodes, Martha Henry, Suzanne Grossmann, Garrick Hagon, Heath Lambert and Ted Hodgeman. Most of those taking part are well known to Canadian radio and television audiences, and have appeared at the Stratford Festival. Mr. Rhodes will be interviewed about the project.

Lyal Brown, 34, was born in Medicine Hat, Alta. He has lived in seven of Canada's ten provinces, including all four western provinces. In 1962 he spent six months on an Assignment Canada tour of the Canadian West. He now makes his home in Winnipeg where he writes for radio, television and films.

PEACE RIVER AND GRANDE PRAIRIE residents will be able to see much of the French-language programming formerly seen only on CBXT Edmonton, effective Sunday, November 17. That morning, CBXAT and CBXAT-1 will come on the air at 10:00 a.m., just half an hour after CBXT signs on. The stations, after that date, will continue to sign on each Saturday and Sunday morning at 10:00 a.m.

This increase in hours of service has become possible through network lines being made available from 10:00 a.m. each day of the week, instead of just weekdays as was the case formerly. The French-language programming in no way replaces or affects English-language programming presently seen on the stations.

CANADIAN FARMERS tend to take the ownership of land for granted. Plenty of land has been available since the days of early settlement, and most of it is bought and sold each generation. Each farm family tries to pay off a mortgage in its lifetime, until a son or daughter is ready to begin the cycle once again.

This is the Farm Radio Forum topic for November 18. The program, called Heritage, will be broadcast at 9:00 p.m., on November 18, over 70 CBC stations. About 400 regular farm forums will be joined by special groups, meeting for this night only.

Marking Benjamin Britten's

50th Birthday:

Innocence Despoiled

The Chamber opera

THE RAPE OF LUCRETIA

is presented Sunday

at 8:05 p.m. on CBC Radio

BENJAMIN BRITTEN celebrates his 50th birthday this week, and the occasion will be marked on CBC Radio by a performance of his opera, The Rape of Lucretia. It is chosen because, first of all, it is a moving work in its own right. It is also one of his less familiar works—there has been no LP recording of it—and one that is particularly suited to radio broadcast, with its small cast and orchestra of twelve, and its device of a narrative Chorus to link and define the action.

The Rape of Lucretia, first produced at Glyndebourne in 1946, is the second in the canon of Britten's operas and the first of his chamber operas. The story comes from Shakespeare, by way of the French playwright André Obey, the libretto being the work of Ronald Duncan. The story is a simple one. A wager among the Roman generals about the faithfulness of their wives while they are away has proved only Lucretia chaste. Tarquinius is spurred on to try her virtue, and he does so, and Lucretia kills herself out of shame.

By itself this would be perhaps merely effective melodrama without any wider significance. The opera, however, frames these events within an explicitly Christian commentary given to the male and the female chorus. The rape of Lucretia, something that happened in a pagan empire long ago, is seen in the light of the Christian sacrifice and in relation to ourselves.

Britten's use of the Chorus has sometimes been criticized as a device that interposes itself between us, the listeners, and the action, making the events unreal, and losing what occurs in the commentary upon it. But this is to misunderstand the conventions of the opera and what it is about.

The Rape of Lucretia is designed with great care for its normal balance. Each of its two acts mirrors the other in structure. Many of the crucial scenes are narrated, and so given a particular detachment, not sung and acted out. Much of the drama is in the (Please turn to page 29)

PUBLIC HOUSING:

A National Emergency "Cheerfully Ignored"

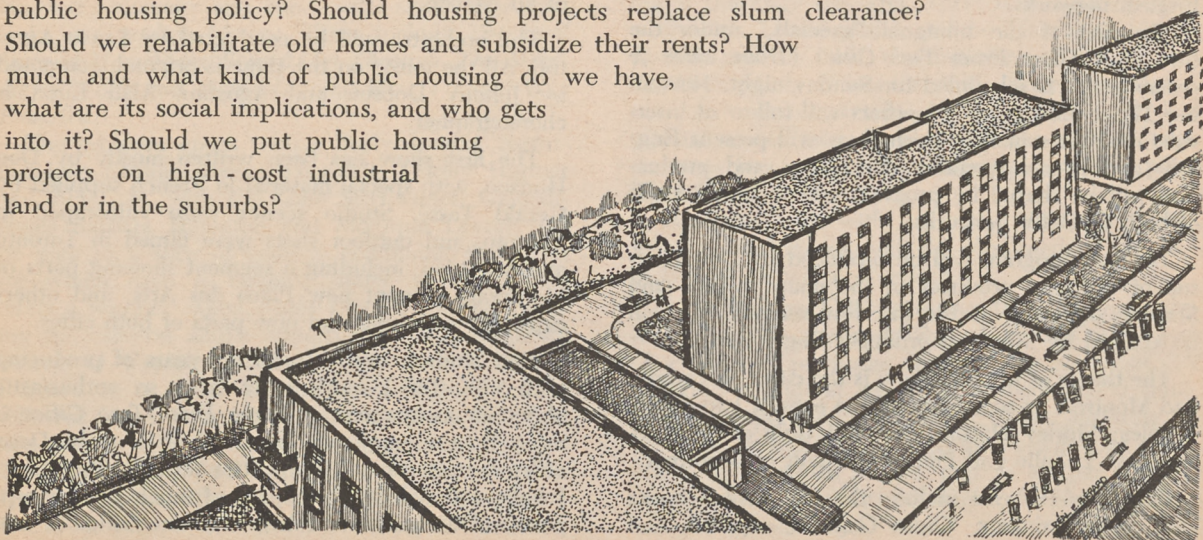

We will soon have to face the fact that our public housing construction program is inadequate, it is revealed Monday on CBC Radio's TRANS-CANADA MATINEE.

SINCE 1945 tens of thousands of new apartment buildings and houses have been built in Canada, and many feel that our housing production is a proud achievement. Architecturally it has improved tremendously, and sometimes leads public housing design. But has the building boom taken care of all our housing needs? Canada was the last nation in the Western World to adopt subsidized public housing as a national measure, and today we have only as much public housing coast to coast as there is in the city of Buffalo. Are we going about it in the right way?

Architect James Murray, University of Toronto professor and director of the National Housing Study, feels that the Canadians' attitude "is one of apathy and misunderstanding because very little attempt has been made to make them aware of what really is the task of public housing, why it need exist in a free-enterprise society." Murray spent the last year investigating the Canadian scene and also visited European countries to see how they are coping with housing needs. He is one of many authorities interviewed by freelance broadcaster Allan Anderson in a cross-country investigation of whether home-building in Canada has kept pace with the need of everyone for a decent place to live.

Anderson will broadcast his findings in a special hour-long program to be heard on CBC Radio's Trans-Canada Matinee on Monday, November 18, at 2:03 p.m. (2:33 p.m. on CBX). He has learned, he says, that "Canada's public housing has been reluctant, restrained, for the wrong social level of families (the upper fifth of the lower income bracket), and is a national emergency we have so far cheerfully ignored. Most of us don't know the crisis exists."

On the program, Anderson talks with a wide variety of people, from the cautious and the angry to the pessimistic, including architects, housing experts, sociologists, and people who work or live in public housing, or would like to. He tries to find answers to such questions as: Does Canada have a public housing policy? Should housing projects replace slum clearance? Should we rehabilitate old homes and subsidize their rents? How much and what kind of public housing do we have, what are its social implications, and who gets into it? Should we put public housing projects on high-cost industrial land or in the suburbs?

Bill Cole and Shirley Harmer in Toronto.

A SHOW FROM

CBC's English and French networks pool resources for a series of musicals

SOME OF THE top entertainment talent in French and English-speaking Canada will be featured on CBC-TV this season in four hour-long variety shows to be seen simultaneously on the CBC's French and English networks.

The first of the bilingual "specials," under the title of A Show From Two Cities (Deux villes se rencontrent), is scheduled for Sunday night, November 17, at 9:00 p.m. The others will follow at intervals of about a month. Each show will present English- and French-speaking performers, and production will be shared by program and technical staffs of both CBC-TV networks.

The first program will be produced by Don Hudson of Toronto, producer of the many Wayne and Shuster "specials" of the last few seasons. He will be assisted by Montreal producer Roger Fournier.

The theme of the first show is the cities of Toronto and Montreal as seen through the eyes of two young couples: Shirley Harmer and Bill Cole of Toronto, and Lise LaSalle and Pierre Theriault of Montreal.

Others in the cast include the well-known opera and concert singers, Claire Gagnier, soprano, and Richard Verreau, tenor; comedienne Monique Leyrac and Barbara Hamilton, and comedian Doug Romaine; dancer Don Gillies; singer Renée Claude; actor Jean Cavall; the Gino Silvi Octet; and a group of 20 dancers.

The orchestra will be conducted by Lucio Agostini. All the music on the show is original, composed by Johnny Dobson and Agostini. Alan Lund is choreographer.

The first show has been written mostly by Don Hudson, with special material in French supplied by Gerald Tassé. Studio scenes were videotaped in Toronto, and outdoor shots were filmed in Toronto and Montreal, including a segment showing parts of Montreal's elegant new Place des Arts, and others exploring many old and new parts of both cities.

Don Hudson says: "In all my years of producing with CBC-TV I have never been so enthusiastic about an assignment. A Show From Two Cities is more than a one-hour "special." It is truly Deux villes se rencontrent (Two Cities Brought Together). I believe it will be the means of much greater rapport and exchange of talent between Canada's two Lise LaSalle and Pierre Theriault in Montreal.

TWO CITIES

First program of the series, Sunday,
November 17, comes from Toronto and Montreal largest production centres. I cannot overstate my delight with the talent and charm of all the French Canadian artists with whom I've worked."

Keynote of the first show, says Hudson, is "warmth, glamour and fun," with some humorous looks at Canadian history. These include The Real Story of How Laura Secord Got Through, The Meeting of Wolfe and Montcalm, and How Toronto Was Founded.

The program opens with a lively number featuring Lise LaSalle, Pierre Theriault, Shirley Harmer and Bill Cole, with the Gino Silvi Octet. Comedienne Barbara Hamilton and Monique Leyrac will be seen in a slice of comedy combining the styles for which each is famous; singer Renée Claude offers a number called Night Life in Montreal, giving the cameras ample opportunity for spotlighting centres of French-Canadian gaiety. Don Gillies is featured in a dance designed especially for him, followed by A Tour of Toronto in which Bill Cole and Shirley Harmer visit the Canadian National Exhibition; Toronto's City Hall to meet Mayor Donald Summerville, who contributes to the show's fun in an unexpected way; drive along the Gardiner Expressway, through the financial district, and other Toronto areas. Musical Ride, a comedy number, features Doug Romaine and a group of male dancers. Claire Gagnier and Richard Verreau are seen singing at the Place des Arts. There is A Tour of Montreal with Lise LaSalle, Pierre Theriault, Shirley Harmer and Bill Cole, showing some of the gracious old city's points of interest, both historic and brand new. An amusing sketch with Jean Cavall finds him playing a politician speaking to the sort of mass audience few men in the public eye are ever privileged to address.

The show ends with a medley featuring Shirley, Bill, Lise and Pierre, with the ultra-modern expanses of Dorval Airport as a setting.

E. S. Hallam, CBC vice-president, programming, feels that "this combined English-French production of a series of programs designed for both CBC-TV networks is another step, and a major one, I think, in the Corporation's continuing effort to bring its audiences together. These programs will give Canadians, in all walks of life, and in all parts of the country, an opportunity to sample the blend of English and French in our lives."

Juliette

Juliette's special guest is Vancouver singer Ken Coleman. Regulars are The Romeos, Bill Isbister and the Orchestra and the four girl vocalists.

Heritage

The Drama Of King David

FOR SHEER, compelling excitement, few adventure stories can match the Old Testament tale of King David. Tracing his life from humble beginnings as a shepherd boy who vanquished the giant warrior Goliath, to his eventual rise to the leadership of a unified nation, the stories told in the two Books of Samuel, first Book of Kings and corresponding chapters in Chronicles are filled with the thrilling action, intrigue and high romance of which great adventure is made.

Writers of fiction would be hard put to create a more interesting hero than David. Starting out as a lowly farmer's son, he attracted the attention of King Saul through his courage as a fighter and his skill as a poet and musician, became the most famous warrior of Israel and commander of Saul's armies. Then, driven from favour by Saul's jealousy, he became leader of an outlaw band, a small army of tough fighting men who ravaged the countryside.

As an adventure-hero, David even has the fascinating quality of contradiction in his personality. Though loyal to King Saul and the God of the Israelites, he nevertheless took his 600-man bandit army over to the land of the Philistines, arch-enemies of Israel, to seek refuge from Saul's pursuing forces, then secretly sacked Philistine towns while living under their protection.

Saved from having to do battle against his own king and country by the fact that his Philistine friends couldn't trust him, David still had no compunction about setting himself up as ruler of Israel as soon as the Philistines had conquered his homeland. Eventually, as King David, he was able to weld the tribes together, largely by the force of his own personality, to form a mighty nation, and became the greatest and most idolized figure in its history.

Events from the dramatic story of David will be recounted this week on CBC-TV's Heritage (Sunday, November 17) in a program of "dramatized readings" by Leo Ciceri, an actor well known to audiences both in England and North America. It is a real tour-de-force for Ciceri, for in telling the story he assumes the roles of various persons as they appear, bringing them to life in vivid characterizations.

Let's Face It

Special guest French novelist Andre Maurois is interviewed by Ed Sarton on differences between French-speaking and English-speaking people.

CBWT-Desilu Playhouse

Franchot Tone and Jo Van Fleet star in the touching drama of a girl's patience and faith, adapted from the Kay Boyle novel, Crazy Hunter. Produced and directed by Jerry Thorpe.

THE APPEARANCE of the British Columbia Lions in the Western Conference football final marks the culmination of 10 years of hard work by a dedicated band on the west coast and could mark the start of an era of Canadian football — a period during which the Lion will be truly king.

Winners of 12 of 16 league games, including all eight in their home park, the Lions are going to be more than a handful for the Calgary Stampeders or Saskatchewan Roughriders, no matter which team is their opposition, in the best-of-three final series starting November 16.

British Columbia has made the greatest advance in western football, moving from fourth place last year. It is no accident.

Lions football fans forced the executive to take a look at itself, the team and any other facet of the organization that needed possible overhauling. The result was an unprecedented reappraisal which saw three men from across the country make recommendations that, once followed, have set up the Lions as a model organization.

Miss Toby shows him how to pick them up without bending the knees.

Girl Talk

Hostess and moderator Virginia Graham's guests include Joan Bennett, actress; Gloria Monty, TV director; and Kay Gardella, New York Daily News TV critic. The girls discuss TV critics, audiences and if they are influenced by critics, and romance with actors you are playing opposite.

CBXT—Gale Storm

Trouble in Trinidad. Susanna goes into a Trinidad cafe to record calypso music, but instead records a bomb plot.

CBWT—Gale Storm

Nuguey buys Aladdin's lamp from a fast-talking merchant in Karachi and gets Susanna involved in a plot of intrigue and danger.

Ladies First

1. Gerdine Crawford demonstrates how to sew, knitting, and attaching buttons.

2. Ruth Dyker talks about refrigerators and freezers.

Password

Allen Ludden is host of a word association game, in which two teams made up of a celebrity guest and a partner chosen from the studio audience try to guess enough passwords to beat their opponents.

Scarlett Hill

Stan is interested in Kasuko. Roger decides to come and live in the house.

Take Thirty

1. Greg Winkfield, old-type troubadour folk-singer, joins Take Thirty.

2. Gord Lightfoot, country and western singer, is guest.

3. A dude who resembles Paul Soles may try to horn in on this program.

Friendly Giant

Rusty has a new book entitled In A Pumpkin Shell, and plays a song from it. Friendly and Jerome are surprised because there is no music in it.

This Living World

Steve Bloomer describes the difference between fish and mammals.

CBWT—Puppet Playhouse

Charlemagne is at it again. He decides that he is going to be a sports car driver, and his driving lessons with Reggie nearly end in disaster as his car winds up on a railway track. Producer, Don Browne-Wilkinson.

CBXT—Kerry Wood Storybook

Bird Feeders. Kerry demonstrates how to make bird feeders, and how to coax birds to them. He shows photos and supplies information on the different species of winter birds.

CBWT—Reach for the Top

The teams competing this week are Westwood Collegiate and Joseph Wolinsky Collegiate.

CBXT—Sports Page

Host, CBC sportscaster, Glenn Bjarnason. Sports Page continues its regular football segment featuring personal interviews with professional football players and coaches. Today, a sound on film interview with Red O'Quinn, General Manager of Ottawa Roughriders, and Frank Morris of the University of Alberta, demonstrating blocking plays. Producer, Dave Smiley.

Don Messer's Jubilee

Guests are dancer Buster Brown and singer Ron Goodwin.

Green Grow the Lilacs	Marg Osborne
By the River of Roses	Charlie Chamberlain
You Can't Take the Country from the Boy	Ron Goodwin
A Dance	Buster Brown

Garry Moore

Guests are the comedy team of Mimi Ford and Phil Hines, and singer Nancy Dussault.

Playdate

The Typists, by Murray Schisgal. In the intimacy of a small office two people reveal their innermost hopes and fears to one another. Starring Frances Hyland and Douglas Rain.

Explorations

The Jew in the World. The Dispersed. Examines the current status of Jews living in America, in Britain, and behind the Iron Curtain, and their attitudes toward the Jewish State of Israel.

CBWT—An Age of Kings

Rebellion from the North. (Henry IV, Part 1, Acts 1 and 2). The new King is faced with seemingly insuperable problems. Reckless "Hotspur" and his family revolt in the North, while his son, Prince Hal, prefers the environment of London's disreputable Eastcheap Tavern.

(Repeat of last Wednesday's feature).

CBXT—Thriller

A Third for Pinochle. Two old-maid sisters have two objectives in life, to spy on neighbours and to play pinochle, preferably three-handed. Because of these objectives they become involved with the man next door.

Program Notes

NOVEMBER 19

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

National Schools Telecasts

The Century of Unrest. A series of four programs dealing with some of the most important events, problems, and ideas that have made the twentieth century a period of unrest and conflict.

Nursery School Time

Dick is sitting in a shoe, wearing a glove several sizes too large for him, and waiting for Miss Madeleine who is surprised to find a stranger in the room.

Girl Talk

Hostess Virginia Graham's guests include Florence Halop, actress; Irene Papas, Greek actress; and Radie Harris, columnist. The girls discuss publicity performers receive, lack of private life, celebrities, experience, and the responsibility of the performer to his public.

NOVEMBER 21

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

National Schools Telecasts

Our Government. This four-part program will dramatize and document aspects of Canadian government and citizenship that are best conveyed through the medium of television.

Nursery School Time

Dick pretends to be a sheep. Miss Madeleine recites a poem for him and they sing a song.

Girl Talk

Hostess Virginia Graham's guests include Sheila Graham, Hollywood columnist; and Liz Smith, assistant to New York columnist Shelley Knickerbocker. The girls discuss social and gossip columns and the part they play in peoples' lives; and the relationship between the columnists and the people they write about.

CBXT—Gale Storm

Action in Acapulco. When a Vice-President of the shipping line decides to inspect the S.S. Ocean Queen, Capt. Huxley decides to send Susanna ashore so that she will not upset the ships' decorum.

CBWT—Gale Storm

Immigrants. Huxley finds a refugee family stowing away in one of the lifeboats and Susanna persuades him that they are worthy of a chance of freedom in America.

CBXT—Love That Bob

It's Later Than You Think. When an Air Force buddy discovers Bob isn't married he tells him that he should. This starts a disquieting train of thought in Bob's mind, and he thinks seriously of marriage.

Ladies First

1. Co-hosts Jo Everett and Ernie Poscente welcome Madelaine Dunkley, who continues instruction on how to make a fur hat out of lynx.

2. Special guests will form a panel for lively discussion.

3. Ladies First takes a look at the Edmonton Journal of 50 years ago.

Scarlett Hill

Sydney meets Roger and finds conversation difficult. Walter feels confident that he will succeed in becoming mayor.

Take Thirty

Lotta Dempsey interviews Mrs. Robert Thompson, wife of the Leader of the Social Credit Party, at her home in Red Deer, Alta.

Friendly Giant

Friendly, Rusty and Jerome talk about friends, who they are and how important they are.

CBXT—St. Lawrence North

The Jean Richard. A goelette — a wooden ship of 120 feet in length — is built and almost carved by hand, in the traditional manner of the coastal villagers of the North Shore.

Stop, Look and Listen

Bill Guest, Gerri Styne, and Jeff Maneshin present features for young people. Producer Dave Ruskin.

1. News Report. Events of interest to youngsters in the community.

2. R' U' Kidding? Presents illusions and delusions.

3. How's It Done? Shows how puffed wheat is puffed.

4. Critic Cupboard. Critics form opinions from art reviews of paintings and sculptures on exhibition at the Winnipeg Art Gallery.

5. Quick Quiz. Young panel members test each others wits.

6. Point of View. Students at Britannia School give their views on discipline in the classroom.

CBWT—Biography

Thomas Dewey. Highlights the years of Thomas Dewey as special U.S. federal prosecutor and crimebuster, through his two defeats as Republican presidential candidate.

The Serial

Son of a Hundred Kings. Episode 9. The roller boat is launched at Lake Tuscarora. The great fight occurs between Kid Prentice and Norman Craven. Mr. Mortson decides that the time has come to close in on his quarry, but Bert Lamb decides to leave town.

Cast: Martin Norton as Ludar; Drew Thompson as Billy; George Allen as Norman Craven; Leslie Yeo as Mr. Mortson; and Bill Clover as Bert Lamb.

Grindl

Grindl takes a day off and encounters a variety of unusual problems.

Parade

Guests on this show are singer Betty Robertson, jazz pianist and composer Cy Coleman, and the vocal-instrumental quartet, the Four Saints.

CBWT—Thriller

The Last of the Somervilles. A suspense story centered in an old manor house.

Vivacious Gerri Styne interviews students for Stop, Look and Listen, seen Thursdays at 4:30 p.m. on CBWT, Tuesdays at 4:30 p.m. on CBXT.

RICHTER: Artist Of Keyboard and Canvas

SVIATOSLAV RICHTER, Soviet pianist in his late forties, who has been celebrated for years in his homeland as the greatest living Russian pianist, emerged from the mists of legendary reputation only three or four years ago to let the Western world sample his concert hall technique.

Since then he has enthralled audiences in Europe and in many North American cities. His recordings have a world-wide circulation—even music critics play them for mere pleasure, and most feel that although Rubinstein and Serkin need not retire in the face of this impressive talent, and Busoni and Rachmaninoff can rest in peace, Richter is certainly one of the most brilliant pianists to be heard in many a day.

He's an intense, introspective, blond giant of a man with the huge hands of a steelworker, and modestly insists that his renown rests on a combination of memory and muscle: he can play 15 new programs each season, and can span an octave with his first and little fingers.

On CBC Sunday Night, November 17, at 11:05 local time, Richter will be heard in a transcribed recital including Suite No. 5 in E major by Handel; Nocturne in F major by Chopin; and three piano pieces by Schubert.

Reportedly he is such a perfectionist that nothing about his work really pleases him—after a performance he always feels he could have done much better. "My little finger has sinned!" is his usual comment. He says he plays best in really hot weather, so oven-like concert halls never really disturb him, although if he isn't in what he calls the right mood to approach a composer, no matter how steaming the temperature, he may not play at all.

In his leisure time Richter likes to paint, and critics say he might have made his mark as a landscape artist if he hadn't decided to concentrate on the piano.

The Shadows Of Our Hopes

A RECENT off-Broadway stage success, The Typists, a two-character play by Murray Schisgal, will be presented on CBC-TV's Playdate on Monday night, November 18. The production by Basil Coleman stars Frances Hyland and Douglas Rain, who, in the course of the action, which spans one working day, must age physically from their 20s to their 60s.

Schisgal is in his late 30s, a stockily built Brooklynier with black hair sticking out in wisps, who rarely appears without a cheroot in his mouth, and who makes a practice of seeming a little rough around the edges. "My father was a scholar and a steam-presser in Brooklyn," he informs us. "I played the tenor sax in a jazz band of second cousins until I was told I was tone deaf. Then I became a lawyer and a high school teacher and wrote a lot of novels."

He also turned his hand to play-writing, but had to get his work produced elsewhere (London, Edinburgh, Israel) before the U.S. would find room for it. He recalls that he trudged around Broadway with his first two plays for three years before he found a buyer.

Tone-deaf Schisgal may be, but in The Typists he shows a strong ear for dialogue, chord and dis-chord, and his characterizations are thoughtfully defined in a manner almost old-fashioned in one so forthrightly modern. The situation in The Typists is this: a young man studying law five nights a week takes a day job as a typist in a small promotion office where his co-typist is a young woman. It's soon evident, as they exchange confidences, that both are lonely and confused about what they really want out of life. Full of brave resolutions and insisting on their love of independence, they yet realize that most people live their whole lives without really knowing themselves or what they need or could be. Schisgal gently turns back the layers of the typists' personalities and drab lives for his audience until, at the end of the play, viewers may have the strange feeling that they are looking into a mirror at the elderly shadows of their former hopes.

Singer Doreen Hayes is featured Monday at 7:45 p.m. on Song Recital, with Sir Granville Bantock's Songs from the Chinese.

minds of the people, unspoken, scarcely conscious, and can only be revealed to us by the Chorus. The cast itself is exactly balanced: the three Roman generals, Lucretia and her two attendants, solo tenor and soprano voices for the Chorus. The musical language too uses the formality of recitative, hymn, chorale prelude and passacaglia.

The Rape of Lucretia is the first of a series of works in which Britten has explored the relations of innocence and evil in our world and in relation to the archetypal Christian sacrifice. No theme seems to have a more urgent grasp upon his imagination nor to inspire him more deeply. The great War Requiem of last year, interfusing the poems of Wilfred Owen and the liturgy, asks and answers the crucial questions about the sacrifice of innocence on a universal scale. The Rape of Lucretia poses similar questions more privately in the lyricism of individual voices and a handful of instruments, and it is by the interventions — the grief and the speculation — of the witnessing Chorus that we understand fully this rape of innocence, in its way as horribly pointless as the slaughter of world wars. "Is this all?" asks one Chorus at the end, and the other voice replies that it is not all. It is part of man's fallen nature that innocence be violated; it is part of God's grace to console and redeem. This is the cycle contemplated in so many of Britten's works, each time in different terms — the sacrifice of Billy Budd, of the children in The Turn of the Screw, of Isaac in Abraham and Isaac, of whole generations in the War Requiem. The Rape of Lucretia contemplates it with a poignancy unique in Britten's works and modern opera. What moves us is not just the terrible act nor the commentary, but what they mean, taken together; more terrible, but more tolerable too.

SPORTS—BOB MOIR

Once the "room at the top" was cleared, the work of putting the team in order was taken on confidently by Dave Skrien and his staff two years ago.

They began slowly. Football experts across the country believed that, with a healthy Joe Kapp and two or three more players of top-notch calibre, the Lions would be strong contenders, despite their 1 and 15 record of 1961.

Lions started their move midway through the 1962 season and reached a point where Blue Bomber coach Bud Grant called them "the finest fourth-place team Canadian football has ever seen."

There was no slow start this season.

With the addition of players like Peter Kempf, the high-scoring place-kicker, Pete Ohler, Bill Laseter, Bill Munsey, Emery Barnes, Ian Hagemoen and Paul Seale, the Lions were virtually set.

Their complete domination of the Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders, from whom they won six games, enabled them to sweep to first place.

The Lions were beaten four times, twice by Winnipeg and once by Ottawa and Hamilton.

The losses to the eastern clubs would set up an outstanding Grey Cup final, because either Hamilton or Ottawa will be the eastern representative.

It's interesting to note that two of British Columbia's losses came on the second games of week-ends. Before losing to Winnipeg the first time, the Lions won a big game from Calgary three days earlier. The loss to Ottawa came two days after the game in Hamilton. No Canadian football team managed to win the second game of a week-end during the 1963 season, when playing a fresh team.

The first game of the western conference final is featured on CBC Television Saturday, along with the National Hockey League game from Montreal, when the Canadiens meet the Chicago Black Hawks. This week-end there is also the regular Sunday afternoon feature, National League football, with this week's opponents, Green Bay and Chicago.

Also, on Saturday there will be bowling from Toronto and Sunday, another Sports International program featuring sports events from around the world.

Then Wednesday sees the second big game of the Western football finals.

Life Behind The Iron Curtain

"I BELIEVE there will be quite a brilliant life in another 20 years; and what awaits our children is something quite marvellous."

The speaker is a young woman named Natasha, and she is talking about life in her native Russia. She is one of a half-dozen English-speaking Russians who will be heard on CBC Radio's Project '64 this week (Sunday, November 17, at 5:00 p.m.) in a program about life behind the Iron Curtain.

In interviews conducted by freelance broadcaster Ray deBoer, mainly in Moscow, the Russians give their comments on everyday life in the Soviet Union, and express their ideas of what the rest of the world is like. Some of their views of Russian life may seem naive, and some of their ideas about life in the West are wildly inaccurate, but all make for fascinating listening.

The program was prepared by deBoer and Edward Crankshaw, of The Observer of London, an authority on post-war Russia, and was edited and produced for Project '64 by Barry Morgan. Crankshaw is heard throughout the program, commenting on or clarifying, when necessary, the remarks of the interviewees.

With a new delay centre put into operation in Winnipeg late in October, 90 per cent of Canadians now see CBC-TV programs at the same hour local time.

La Chorale des Intrepides is the fourth choir to appear in the current series of western region amateur choirs. A mixed chorus of some 60 to 65 voices, the group serves an important cultural function in their home city of St. Boniface, Man.

The choir's repertoire includes music of the church, folk songs and for this year, they are also concentrating on a

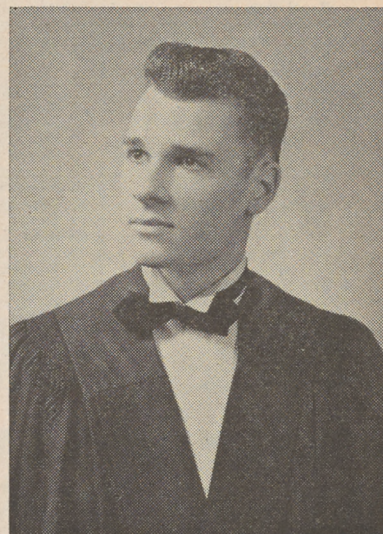

What is known About the Moon?

WHETHER OR NOT IT will be possible to land a man on the moon by 1970, we have already learned some important things about the moon from our viewpoint here on earth, and about how it influences our lives and the lives of other living things on earth.

Is the moon really a satellite orbiting around the earth like a space capsule and, if so, which way is it travelling? We see it rising in the east and setting in the west, but does this really represent its true direction of movement in relation to the earth? Why is it we see only one side of the moon? Is the other side in perpetual darkness? Over a period of time do we ever see more than 50 per cent of the moon's surface? What brings about the different phases of the moon? Why do we think that the moon is responsible for our ocean tides, and why do we have not one but two high tides and low tides as the earth spins about once in relation to the moon?

These are some of the questions discussed by Dr. Helen Hogg, professor of astronomy at the University of Toronto, in a conversation with anchor man Bill Gunn in the CBC Radio series Natural Curiosity, on Soundings, Thursday, November 21, at 9:00 p.m. local time.

Marcien Ferland, above, directs the excellent French-Canadian choir, La Chorale des Intrepides, on Parade of Choirs, Thursday at 10:05 p.m. The 60- to 65-voice mixed choir is from St. Boniface, part of Metropolitan Winnipeg.

A Lively Look At Stephen Leacock

J. B. PRIESTLEY, in an introduction to a collection of humorous essays by Stephen Leacock published a few years ago, analyzed the Leacock brand of humour as a blend of the entirely amiable nonsense of characteristic British humour and the corrosive satire of many American writers. Which plunks Leacock down neatly in the middle of the road, and thus makes him distinctively Canadian, at least

by the damning definition that has plagued us Canadians for a dozen decades.

Few needed Priestley's analysis, unintentionally ruffling as it was, to know that Leacock was a Canadian writer. His gently satirical stories about the foibles of his fellow men were obviously inspired in many cases by the manners and morals of Southern Ontario and Montreal in the early years of the present century.

Leacock's stories have provided the basis for many CBC programs in the past, and a new one is scheduled for CBC Stage this week. Tommy Tweed, another astute observer of the humorous side of Canadian life, has culled some choice bits from Leacock's writings and shaped them into a "dramatized entertainment" titled A Lively Look at Leacock. It will be heard Friday, November 22, at 10:30 p.m.

COOK'S TOUR

with Mat Gauer

RECIPES FEATURED ON
"LADIES FIRST" EACH THURSDAY

JEWISH DOUGH KNISHES

$\frac{1}{2}$ lb. cream cheese spread

$\frac{1}{2}$ lb. butter

2 cups flour

1 tbsp. cream

FILLING

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup rice cooked in milk until tender

1 lb. cottage cheese

1 egg, beaten

1 tbsp. sugar

2 tbsp. melted butter

Mix together all ingredients. Remove dough from the refrigerator, cut off a piece to roll to the size of the pie plate. Roll this very thin. Put filling on and roll jelly roll fashion. Place on greased pan, brush with cream to glaze. Bake at 325° for 40 minutes or until golden brown.

Cut into serving pieces and serve with sour cream and strawberries.

Wrestling Match of the Century

Medicine Hat's Mayor

vs.

Charlie Chamberlain

AN INDIAN-WRESTLING match between Charlie Chamberlain and the "Millionaire Mayor" of Medicine Hat was a high point in the summer Western Canada tour by Don Messer and his Islanders.

Don Messer's Jubilee is now back on the CBC-TV network at 7:30 p.m. each Monday. Don and his boys, along with Marg Osburne, spent two months travelling and performing in the Prairies.

During a stopover in Medicine Hat, Mayor Harry Veiner took one look at Charlie Chamberlain's formidable physique and challenged the ex-lumberjack to a round of Indian wrestling.

Don Messer says: "It was the funniest thing I have ever seen!"

Who won? Reliable sources say the great test of strength ended in a draw.

Everywhere they went, the Islanders played benefits for the aged, hospital patients and orphans.

Don vividly recalls a benefit in Prince Albert. It was for a thousand enthusiastic inmates at the Federal Penitentiary there. Recently, Messer received by mail a large hand-made prairie schooner table lamp from the inmates in appreciation of the visit.

Don is back in Halifax, for another busy fall-winter season. He had only two weeks vacation this summer; then back to work—researching, arranging music, and conferring with his television producer, Bill Langstroth, his radio producer, Ira Stewart, and choreographer Gunter Buchta.

Messer's "down east music" is heard across Canada on the CBC Radio network as well—each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 12:15 p.m.

Television's Jubilee this year will stay with its half-hour format of oldtime music, reels, jigs, polkas, square sets, folk songs and hymns, done in the inimitable Messer style.

However, viewers will notice three new faces with the Buchta Dancers: Marilyn Boyle, Pamela Foster and Joseph Wallin.
